LOCAL MATTERS

The barley about Tucson is mostly ready for harvesting.

SHERIFF OTT, who has recently been on a round of duty on the Gila, reports very good crops down there.

SOME Mexicans reported seeing thirty-odd Indians in the mountains just south-east of Tucson, last Sunday.

THERE has been a little activity in imports for the past week, but the present year has been one of very trifling business in that line at this port.

THE weather has been remarkably temperate and pleasant this season. But few hot days and many cloudy ones have prevailed.

AN unusually large number of people hereabouts have been afflicted with influenza—in fact the disease has been prevalent for some weeks.

THE San Diego papers state that a large amount of freight had been recently shipped by McDonald & Co. for Lord & Williams at Tucson.

SINCE Governor Sanford stirred up the San Francisco Postmaster in March, we get the papers from that city with much regularity three times each week, and often get them in but 8 to 10 days after publication.

AS will be seen by published awards in this paper, the contracts for wood and forage have been taken at very low figures. Were it not for items of trade and incidental transactions, it is even doubtful whether some of the contractors could get through without loss.

ON Wednesday last, the polls had to be changed from the Court-house down to Main street, convenient to refreshments, to induce the sovereigns to vote even one time. It does not seem to be esteemed a very high privilege to vote at local elections, in which the public are very nearly interested.

ON Wednesday night, Anthony Dorman, under sentence of death, Julio Carrillo, a burglar, William Wesley, a petty thief, and William Willard, escaped from the Pima county jail. A reward of two hundred dollars is offered for Dorman and fifty for Carrillo.

GEO. SMITH, a young man who shot himself through the lung some two months ago, died yesterday morning in the Tucson military hospital. Dr. Handy, assisted by Dr. Wilbur, made a post mortem examination, and found the lungs of the deceased to be far gone with consumption aside from the damaging effect of the wound.

DOES anybody know the whereabouts of Woodworth L. Tompkins? He was familiarly known as "Duke Tompkins." Any information regarding him, should be sent to S. G. Newton, San Antonio, Texas—where he has three sisters very solicitous about him.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.—The election on Wednesday was a quiet affair. But 66 votes were polled. No partisan feeling was exhibited, as always should be the case in purely local affairs. The election resulted in the choice of S. R. DeLong for Mayor; Charles O. Brown, Sara'l Hughes, W. W. Williams and W. S. Oury for Aldermen; William Morgan for Marshal; W. J. Osborne for Assessor; Hiram S. Stevens for Treasurer; Juan Elias for Poundmaster.

PUBLIC SURVEYS.—The surveys of Townships 13 and 14 South, in Range 13 East, have been approved at Washington, and the approved plats have been forwarded from the Surveyor-General's office, to the Land Office at Prescott. These townships include the land from about four miles south of Tucson northward, and embrace all the valley lands to a short distance below the Nine-mile Water-hole. Pre-emption or Homestead filings may be made at any time, by executing them properly and forwarding by mail, with legal Land Office fees, to the Register at Prescott.

GENERAL Field Orders No. 1 changes the name of Stoneman's pet folly—Infantry Camp—to "Camp Pinal." This is probably intended to compliment the Pinal Apaches, as no whites of any account ever mentioned it except with disgust and derision. The same order directs that as soon as practicable, Camp Grant be abandoned. Of course nothing could be more senseless or nearly criminal than this, but it is a Stonemanism. His orders and reports have effected but one good point for certain, and that is his removal from the command which constantly grew less efficient under his control.

Lieutenant Cushing's Last Fight.

April 29, Lt. H. B. Cushing was ordered to move with a small detachment of F Troop, along the Southern border of Arizona between the Sonoita and San Pedro valleys, and ascertain the general direction of the trails made by any large parties of Indians. After marching some days without noteworthy occurrence, he moved May 5, to the site of old Fort Wallen, but was unable to go into camp because the Indians fired all the country in that vicinity. Therefore, he determined to move on to Bear Spring, in Whetstone Mts., north of the post. When a few miles on the way, a squaw's track was observed passing across the trail. Sergeant Mott, with three men, was ordered to follow the track, and soon found that it led into a deep arroyo, apparently intended to mislead the pursuers from the main body. Ascending a small hill, he at once discovered a large body of Apaches moving down upon him. One man was sent to advise the Lieutenant, and the others defended the position with great gallantry, until the rest of the command arrived. A desperate fight, almost hand to hand, then occurred, in which the Indians were badly whipped and retreated, leaving thirteen dead on the battle ground. Our losses were the wounding of Mr. Simpson, privates Green and Pierce, and some animals killed and wounded. The Lieutenant then ordered a forward movement after the Indians, who being by this time largely reinforced, returned and renewed the firing from all sides, killing Lieut. Cushing, Mr. Simpson and Private Green. A slow retreat was then made out of the canyon to rising ground, where the enemy was awaited, but he made no demonstration. The great superiority of number and secure position of the Indians, were sound reasons why the command should retire to some post, and Crittenden was reached at midnight of May 5.

Sergeant Mott's conduct is spoken of in the highest terms by the men. The parties under Captains Moore and Stanwood which visited the scene of conflict a few days thereafter, found the position of the Indians admirably adapted for defense, and by a few resolute men could have been held against a vastly superior force. Cachoes had retired towards the Puerta de las Mulas, on the east side of San Pedro, everywhere burning the country to hide his trail.

Private Martin Green, the soldier killed, was a native of Germany, had served a long time in F Troop, 3d Cavalry, and was noted among his comrades for his steady habits and quiet manner. He had but three more months to serve, and was preparing to visit his relatives. At the time of his death, over $700 were found on his person.

W. H. Simpson was first shot through the mouth and back of the neck, and while stubbornly fighting, was again shot in the body and also in the hand. Private Green was first shot in the leg and afterwards through the head.

Lt. Cushing's wound was through the lungs, the bullet passing from breast to back. As he was being carried off between the Sergeant and a private, a second bullet pierced his brain, passing from the back of his neck through and knocking out his right eye.

The bodies were buried where they fell. Lt. C. in the middle, Mr. S. on the right and Private Green on the left.

As soon as possible, they will be taken up, brought to Tucson and buried with military honors.

PROMPTLY upon their arrival in Washington on the 20th of March, Hon. R. C. McCormick presented the various memorials and resolutions of our Legislature, addressed to Congress and the Departments. The two memorials to the former body, one concerning our Indian troubles and one asking a change in the excise laws, were presented on the same day and printed. We have received copies.

A PRIVATE letter from Phenix says 50 fraudulent votes were rung in along the Gila, and that the matter will be looked into a little. From the appearance of the vote, it would seem Maricopa county is settling up rapidly, or that there is some truth about the illegal votes. But the writer says these votes did not change the known wishes of a majority of the voters.

JOHN G. CAYTON, Esq., has been authorized to carry the mails via Sanford and Florence. This will add to the conveniences of those thriving towns, and also, to the business of the stage line.

LETTER FROM PHENIX.

Election Result—Feeling Aroused and Subsiding—Valley and Crops.

PHENIX, A. T. May 7, 1871.—Our county election is over, and Phenix and the Phenix ticket have come out ahead with two exceptions. I send you the vote as I have got it from the returns. When the vote is canvassed by the board of supervisors, it may show somewhat differently, but so far as the County Seat and County officers are concerned, I think that I have got the correct figures, as follows:

For County Seat, Phenix got 212 votes, Mill City 150, and Mawers's Ranch, 64; for Sheriff, Barnum, 200, Moore 171, Johnson, 46; for Recorder, Bettis 205, Mercer, 214; for Treasurer, Mowry, 228, Baker, 191; for Dist. Attorney, Stinson, 202, Sharp, 181, Monihan, 27; for Supervisors, Young, 214, Shaw, 217, Stiles, 223, McKinnie, 197, Williams, 173, Patterson, 160; Surveyor, Hancock, 212, Boyd, 207; Public Administrator, McKinnie, 188, Henderson 201.

We have had a very spirited election, and the feeling about the County Seat aroused considerable animosity, but since it is over, every body seems disposed to settle quietly down to their work. The friends of Phenix are happy, of course, and many of those who voted against it, seem to be perfectly satisfied that the result is in favor of Phenix.

Our valley never looked better than at present. Many fields of grain are ready for the reapers, and we hope to soon see them at work.
